Acclivity Vineyards Est. 2018

Acclivity, meaning “an upward slope,” is a nod to our vineyard site on the eastern slopes of Alexander Valley. Our plum-colored label pays homage to Tim Murphy and where it all began. Eric and Kyle met in 2013 while working at Madrona Manor in Healdsburg and quickly realized they shared the same passion for wine. After several garage vintages of trial and error, Eric and Kyle made the decision to formally start Acclivity Vineyards. Acclivity pays homage to the past while utilizing modern practices and techniques.

Ampepos is the greek word for vine. Soil. Vines. Wines. - This is the order in which great wine is made. We are resolute in our passion to produce hands on, minimally invasive wines that both whisper and shout about the terroir. Our vineyard is the 1st certified organic, biodynamic and sustainable in the US. Our commitment to eco-friendly, natural farming and winemaking is evident in every sip. We approach winemaking with respect for traditional practices and openness to experimentation. We believe that the journey is the destination and prioritize creating quality wines sustainably.

April and Dominic of Ektimo Vineyards lead with the intention to have each wine to showcase the character of the vineyard, the fruit of the vine, and the craft of the winemaker. They prefer wines that have pure aromatics, concentrated flavors and an elegant structure. A great wine should make you think, but most of all it should tempt you to come back for more.

HÉROE

DEDICATED TO THE WORKERS.

The Héroe (Spanish for hero) label offered by Sculpterra honors not only the vineyard workers of our family winery but pays respect to the unsung heroes of the wine industry. Throughout the region and beyond, the real heroes are the workers. On the back of every bottle is a picture of everyone that participated in that bottles' harvest. Héroe wines are designed to be fruit forward and easy drinking. All grapes are hand-picked from the estate vineyard and produced with just a touch of oak influence.

Hollywood screen writer Robert Kamen considers himself an “accidental” success. In 1980, he found inspiration in 280 acres on the southwestern slopes of the Mayacomas Mountains in Sonoma. With a check from his first screen play, Robert made a commitment. Viticulturist Phil Coturri was introduced to the project and shared Robert’s philosophy on preserving the wilderness of the site and implementing as little intervention as possible. Celebrated winemaker Mark Harold makes some of the most stunning wines from this property.

Kanzler Vineyards is a small and family-owned winery where we live our lives among the vines. The rhythms of the season are constant reminders that the soil, air, water, and vines are the essence of the wines we craft. We’ve always said that great fruit is the real star of our winemaking team, so we let the grapes take center stage. We patiently nurture the vines to produce fruit with intense, ripe, and balanced flavors. Then we let time, traditional winemaking techniques, and good French oak work their magic.

Born from a love of wine and music, La Voix explores French varietals through the sensory and emotional stimulations that are shared by both mediums. Music through performance and recording conveys a powerful, emotional expression. Likewise, through soil, vineyards, and production, wine elicits an equal effect. Both rely on dynamics and tension created by harmonizing high, medium, and low frequencies.

Lamborn Family Vineyards is located at 2,200 feet above sea level, high atop Napa Valley's prestigious Howell Mountain appellation. This environment produces Howell Mountain Zinfandels and Cabernet Sauvignons of the highest quality and intensity. The grapes which eventually become Lamborn wines are exclusively from our organic estate vineyard. We take that formula one step further by organically farming the vineyard ourselves. Our annual farming decisions are based solely on quality and nothing else.

"We believe in producing intensely flavored and yet balanced wines. Our definition of balance relates to beautiful and lush aromatics, a sensuous and saturating mid palate, and a lengthy captivating finish – a complete wine from beginning to end. These are the wines we enjoy drinking and sharing with friends and family." ~ Sam Lando

In 1972 Ken Laird found a prune orchard in northern Napa Valley that he was able to convert to grape vines with the help of Robert Mondavi. This 70-acre vineyard was his first successful planting. Thirty years later the Laird family has become the biggest grape grower in Napa Valley. The Laird Family Estate is also a custom crush facility which houses many boutique wine makers. The Laird Family wines are made from the top 1% of their favorite fruit.

The history behind Le Vigne Winery begins with the Filippini family in the Paso Robles area during the early 1960's. Winery owner Sylvia Filippini's family purchased the property where Le Vigne winery now stands. Early on, Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon were planted to supplement the growing demand of other wine growing regions like Napa and Sonoma. As the vines matured, growers and winemakers began to see real potential for the area with its unique soils, climate, and coastal influence.

Mithra the Sun God, the uncreated creator was the dominate religion of the Roman Empire pre-Christianity. The theme was simple; it was immortality to become one with Mithra. To gain knowledge of the heavens and to be reborn again. Of course, nothing has changed. The story and the wine are about the same. Continuity.

The wines we make today at The Ojai Vineyard are a culmination of four decades pursuing excellence with the fruit grown in our region. We believe a history like ours is an asset only insofar as it is defined by evolution. Craft is not an overnight sensation; it is the step by step progress that only comes from intuition and experience. We at Ojai value independence, intention, and excellence - and our wines reflect those values.

Sculpterra wines are the result of meticulous winemaking practices that coax the true essence of the varietal, allowing for wines that are full-bodied and expressive. The rich, concentrated wines of Sculpterra are the result of combining exceptional fruit from the winery's estate vineyards with fruit from select Paso Robles vineyards. With meticulous hand-crafted winemaking, gentle handling, and traditional gravity methods we ensure the integrity of our wines stay intact.

TONDRÉ

With nearly a century of combined farming experience in Monterey County, Tondre Alarid and his son Joe planted six and a half acres of Pinot Noir in the Santa Lucia Highland appellation. The limited production, award winning Tondre Wines, reflects the exceptional terroir which allows extended fruit "hang time". More sunlight and even ripening results in fruit with intense and distinctive flavor profiles. They recently received the "Sustainability in Practice" (SIP) certification which reflects their commitment to the land.

NEW ZEALAND WINES

Barker's Marque winemakers Simon and his viticulturist wife Vanessa create wine that is a reflection of the Blind River terroir located in Marlborough, New Zealand. Handling their fruit carefully and with minimal intervention the result of their wines are of high quality with unique flavor profile – wines with crispness and minerality. The location of the vineyard sits a half a mile away from the sea that gives the soil moisture and winds that cool the temperatures during the summer seasons.

LOACKER | ALTO ADIGE, ITALY

BIODYNAMIC/ORGANIC

THE LOACKER FAMILY IS ONE OF THE BIO-PIONEERS IN ITALY WITH OVER 40 YEARS EXPERIENCE WITH BIODYNAMIC FARMING.

Building on sustainable, biodynamic practices started in the late 1970s, head winemaker, Hayo Loacker, graduated from University of Dijon and promptly started identifying individual vineyard sites into single 'crus'. The goal is to craft wines that have a full, authentic expression of each terroir with low yields and fermentation starting with indigenous yeasts from each site.

CIABOT BERTON | PIEDMONT, ITALY

THE FULL BODIED RED WINES FROM CIABOT BERTON ARE CRAFTED WITH GRAPES GROWN WITH RESPECT TO THE ECOSYSTEM OF THE VINE AND THE EXPRESSION OF THE LAND OF LANGHE.

All of the vineyards are located in the prestigious historic cru of La Morra, on the slopes facing towards Alba: Roggeri, San Biagio, Rive, Cappallotti, Pria and Rocchettevino. On a land register for La Morra there are references to the Germanic surname of Obertus. The Oberto family can claim to have early origins reaching as far back as 1200. In more recent times other testimonies underline the close bond with the territory of La Morra, with specific references even to the cultivation of vines from 1800 onwards. By the end of the 1950s, Luigi Oberto, along with his father Giovenale, was cultivating the 2 hectares of Nebbiolo on the hill of Bracco San Biagio, and selling the grapes at the Alba market.

From the 1990s, Luigi's children Marco, an oenologist, and Paola, an agronomist, began working with him. Increasingly aware of the quality and full potential of the vineyards and their Nebbiolo grapes, they decided to vinify the grapes of the different vineyards separately, selecting the best batches of Barolo for bottling. In this way, by making a few important adjustments in production to add to Luigi's great experience, the wines of Ciabot Berton have become steadily more widely known and appreciated.

TENUTA SAN JACOPO | TUSCANY, ITALY

ORGANIC FARMING

FOUNDED IN 1737 IN CAVRIGLIA AROUND THE CHURCH OF SAN JACOPO IN CASTIGLIONI, TENUTA SAN JACOPO HAS 120 HECTARES OF ORGANICALLY FARMED VINEYARDS AND OLIVE GROVES.

Three farms, an 18th century villa from 1737, charming farmhouses and a winery on beautiful hills with richly carved avenues of cypress and pine – that is what brought Vanni Milan, Carlo Cattaneo and Marco together to create "great" wines that are elegant and respectful of local vineyards but treated with modern technology extolling the great, natural vocation of the territory.

CONTUCCI | TUSCANY, ITALY

THE CONTUCCI FAMILY IS ONE OF THE OLDEST IN ITALY DATING BACK TO THE XI CENTURY.

Prior to the Renaissance, the Contucci family started cultivating vines and still continues today to make Montepulciano's wine famous throughout the world. The farm area extends over 170 hectares of which 22 are cultivated vineyards. The vineyard consists of only native vines grown by the Spurred Cordon techniques with a density of 4,000-5,000 plants per hectare.

The agronomic techniques are carried out with the maximum respect for the environment with the fertilization and thinning out of the bunches done according to necessity. Harvest is done manually in various stages for the selection of the bunches. In the historic cellars dating from the XIII century, all Contucci wines are aged in French and Slovenian oak barrels between 800 and 2,500 liters. Around 100,000 bottles are produced each year.

ORGANIC FARMING

4TH GENERATION FARMERS, THE FANTI FAMILY LIKES TO MAKE BRUNELLO HOW THEY PREFER TO DRINK IT.

Traditional. Big Barrels. Austere and Aromatic, with the ability to develop with time. Located in the southern part of Montalcino, these wines are not your typical over-ripened alcoholic behemoths you're accustomed from the south. Instead the family has maintained the historical typicity of Montalcino, while incorporating organic farming and minimal intervention. Which leaves us with pure expressions of terroir-driven Sangiovese that you only get from one region... Montalcino!

CORTE PAVONE | TUSCANY, ITALY

ORGANIC

CORTE PAVONE WAS CONVERTED IN THE EARLY 1970'S TO ORGANIC/BIODYNAMIC FARMING BY A BIO-PIONEER, RAINER LOACKER.

Located in the Casanuova area of Montalcino 1,500 ft. above sea level, one of the loftiest positions in the zone. It is a unique estate in that the winemaker, Hayo Loacker, uses Slavonian casks, French Barrique and Austrian oak barrels to age its wines. In both the cultivation of the grapes and in the vinification process, natural and biological practices are adhered to, making Corte Pavone 100% organic.

FERRANTE | TUSCANY, ITALY

FOUR GENERATIONS IN THE MAKING, THE FERRANTE WINES BRING THE BEST OF ITALY TO YOU.

In the early 1900's, Ferrante Castellani embarked on a courageous journey to move his family from Giuliano di Roma to America. Bringing with him nothing more than his family and desire to find a place in the New World for his family. Ferrante came through Ellis Island as many Europeans did and eventually settled in New York.

Today his grandsons and great grandsons have collaborated with Piergiorgio Castellani to craft wines from Italy that represent the different regions of Italy. We've started with a Pinot Grigio from Veneto and a Chianti from Colli Senesi in Tuscany. Salute!

BELLENDIA | VENETO, ITALY

FANTASTIC PRODUCER OF PROSECCO, MARRYING OLD WORLD TRADITION WITH INNOVATIVE PRODUCTION.

On the hills surrounding Conegliano, about 50 miles north of Venice, lies the beautiful estate of Bellenda. In 1987, Sergio Cosmo started this winery, located in the very heart of the Prosecco producing region, while also completely replacing the vine varieties on land he already owned. The Cosmo family also re-designed the layout of the vineyard and planted 80% of the grapes now used for Prosecco and other sparkling wines with the rest used for still wines. Today the family business is run by brothers Umberto, Luigi and Domenico Cosmo, who have a passion for making wine that marries tradition and innovation for the production of truly outstanding wines.

ANDI FAUSTO | LOMBARDIA, ITALY

BIODYNAMIC

FAUSTO HAS BEEN FOCUSING ON INDIGENOUS VARIETALS AND BIODYNAMIC/ORGANIC FARMING PRACTICES TO KEEP UNIVERSAL BALANCE, IN THE VINEYARD AS WELL AS THE BOTTLE.

Andi Fausto has been focusing on indigenous varieties and biodynamic/organic farming practices to keep universal balance, in the vineyard as well as the bottle. These wines are as distinct as we have found, and his style of extraction is BOLD. They are constantly evolving once opened, as each bottling is a journey into this winemakers' unabashed style.

MONTECARIANO | VENETO, ITALY

LOCATED ON THE RIDGE THAT SEPARATES THE FUMANE VALLEY FROM THAT OF MARANO, THE VINEYARDS OF THE MONTECARIANO WINERY EXTEND ON THE HILLY SLOPES FACING SOUTH, WHERE THE SOILS ARE MADE UP OF EARTHY LIMESTONE.

Mariella Gini committed herself with her sons Matteo and Marco to safeguard this territory, wishing to escape from uniformity. The intent was to preserve some indigenous varieties such as Pelara, Oseleta, Molinara, Teroldego, Crotina alongside those traditional, Corvina, Corvinone, Rondinella, because for their family, the wine must represent the memory of its territory.

COEUR DE ROSÉ | PROVENÇE, FRANCE

FOUNDED BY CHILDHOOD FRIENDS CHRISTOPHE VIALETTE & MORGAN ROAIL FROM THEIR PASSION TO SHARE THEIR LOVE FOR WINE AND THE FRENCH RIVIERA.

For Christophe and Morgan, the gathering of friends and family for sharing drinks (aperitifs) and meals was ingrained in them. It is a way of life in the South of France and quality Provençal rosé wine is a big part of this culture. After spending more and more time in the United States, Christophe and Morgan noticed that outside of New York City and some other big metropolitan areas, good Provençal rosés and other wines from their region were hard to come by. Thus, one of the first goals for the team was to produce a line of quality rosés from Provence and introduce them to the USA and other parts of the world.

DOMAINE MOURCHON | RHONE, FRANCE

ORGANIC FARMING

ORGANIC FARMING TO TAKE CARE OF THE LAND, MAINTAIN HEALTHY VITICULTURE AND KEEP THE YIELDS LOW.

Domaine de Mourchon lies in the beautiful Dentelles de Montmirail hills at the centre of a triangle made up of Mont Ventoux in the East, Vaison-la-Romaine to the North and Avignon to the South-West. Thus it is to be found at the heart of not only some of the region's best vine growing country, but also at the heart of the Vaucluse region – Provence at its most historical and most picturesque!

Classified as amongst France's most beautiful villages (an official list of 140), the medieval village of Séguret is perched on a limestone outcrop, just to the north of Gigondas. From here it offers spectacular views over the entire Rhône valley, illuminated by the warm intensity of the famed Provencal light sought by the Impressionists and countless artists since.

JE 'TAIME | LIMOUX, FRANCE

DATING BACK TO 1531, ONE CENTURY BEFORE DOM PERIGNON, THE BENEDICTINE NUNS FROM ST HILAIRE ABBEY CREATED THE FIRST SPARKLING WINE IN THE WORLD: LA BLANQUETTE DE LIMOUX.

1531 - The first sparkling wine

It was in 1531, one century before Dom Pérignon, that wines from Limoux stepped onto the world stage thanks to Benedictine monks from the St Hilaire Abbey, a neighboring village, who created the first sparkling wine in the world: La Blanquette de Limoux. The earliest written references to Blanquette de Limoux can be traced back to the lord of the region, "le Sieur d'Arques" who swigged down "flasks of Blanquette" to celebrate his victories. Four centuries later, in 1946, the founding winemakers of our winery christened their wine, Sieur d'Arques.

CALCADA ESTATE | VINHO VERDE, PORTUGAL

ONE OF THE OLDEST ESTATES IN THE VINHO VERDE REGION, CALCADA HAS BEEN CRAFTED VIBRANT WINES FOR OVER A CENTURY

We have over 50ha of vineyards treated and certified according to sustainable practices, which express what the best nature has to offer us. The grape varieties we prefer are Alvarinho, Loureiro, Arinto, Avesso and Vinhão. The wine we produce is born here.

Casa da Calçada was built in 1707, but the registration of the 1st guests only occurs in 1809. We speak of Napoleon's invading army, which, after prolonged resistance by the Amarantines, settled in that property to be closer to the wine that was already produced there. It was the Lago Cerqueira family who bought the property at the end of the 19th century and rebuilt it. An appreciator of art with refined tastes, António Lago Cerqueira made use of his fortune to transform that colossus into a comfortable palace, decorating the interior of the building with delicacy, elegance but also with a markedly open character.

VINHA PAZ | DAO, PORTUGAL

VINIFICATION HAS TAKEN PLACE AT THE FAMILY WINE CELLAR OF CARREIRA ALTA FOR OVER 5 GENERATIONS.

Owner, António Canto Moniz descended from a family of farmers with a strong connection to the Dão region and its wines. The name of the current wine "Vinha Paz" was inspired respectively by António's mother (Maria da Paz Othon). Vinha Paz translates to "Vineyard of Peace." The harvest and vinification had been supervised by Sr. Magalhães Coelho who has been responsible for the rebirth of the Dão and in 2003 was named "Portuguese Winemaker of the Year". In 2003, Vinha Paz also received a prestigious award from Portugal's top wine magazines as "The Revelation Winery of the Year" and has since gone on to be recognized as producing some of the Dão regions top premium wines. The vineyards are on the hillsides north of Dão facing south east with an area of 12 hectares, where one can see the Old Vines of over 50 years. The dominant grape varieties are: Touriga Nacional, Jaen, Alfrocheiro Preto and Tinta Roriz.

LUIS DUARTE | ALENTEJO, PORTUGAL

LUIS DUARTE HAS REVOLUTIONIZED WINEMAKING IN ALENTEJO.

With 25 years of experience, Luís has been responsible for the successful projects of Herdade do Esporão and most recently Herdade dos Grous. One of Portugal's most recognized vignerons, Luís is the only winemaker to have been awarded Winemaker of the Year 2 times in both 1997 and 2007. He has also consulted for a multitude of other of other highly accoladed wineries throughout the country.

In 2007, Luís started his own personal project introducing the Rapariga Da Quinta and Rubrica labels. Introduced to the US market only in 2010, they have become an instant success with both brands landing in the top 100 wines of the year in the Wine Enthusiast magazine.

Rubrica means signature in Portuguese. The grapes from these wines come from Luís' home property of 8 hectares. The wines are a great expression of what Luís Duarte is capable of creating. Wonderfully rich wines blended with indigenous Portuguese and French grape varieties, aged in French oak barrels.

WINERIES FROM SPAIN

OSSIAN VIDES Y VINOS | RUEDA, SPAIN

ORGANIC VINEYARD

SEEKING TO EXPRESS THE GENUINE CHARACTER OF THE NIEVA VINEYARD, IT TAKES US TO THE ANCESTRAL CULTIVATION OF THE LANDS OF NORTHERN SEGOVIA.

The soil of Nieva is mostly sandy loam. Thanks to its texture, the phylloxera plague had no impact on the region which preserved these vines that still survive as a heritage of winemaking history and a legacy to our ancestors. Ossian is made entirely of century old vineyards that are ungrafted. In general, the geology of the vineyards was formed in the Cenozoic or tertiary era some 20 million years ago.

Ancient practices typical of the area are used in harvesting each small plot by hand. Grapes are then pressed and fermented with native yeasts in 228 and 600 liter barrels. Aging is slow and calm with periodic lees stirring for 9 months.

LA TRUCHA | RIAS BAIXAS, SPAIN

THE EASTERN MOST WINERY IN RIAS BAIXAS NEXT TO THE MINHO RIVER, THE WINERY IS THE FURTHEST FROM THE ATLANTIC IN THE ENTIRE DO OF RIAS BAIXAS.

The name La Trucha (the trout) pays homage to the fish that the winemaker and owner, Jose Alonso, used to fish with father and grandfather in the Minho River as a child. The winery, Notas Frutales, is considered to be located in the Easternmost area of Rias Baixas between the small towns of Creciente and Garabelos along the Minho River. Being the furthest from the Atlantic in the entire DO allows the winds from ocean to arrive attenuated but still allowing the grapes to collect their salinity. The winemaker, Jose, works with his wife, Teresa, and sister-in-law, Elena, to farm the 13 hectares planted at 600 to 1,050 ft. The vines range in age from 25 to 45 yrs old and are all planted on trellis to allow better aeration and avoid the concentration of humidity while giving greater sun exposure leading to optimal ripening.

AUTHENTIC AND EXCITING NEW LINE OF WINES FROM ARGENTINA, THE OMBU WINES ARE HAND CRAFTED BY THE FOURTH GENERATION WINEMAKING FAMILY OF BODEGA ROCA.

From Italian and Spanish ancestors, Alejandro Roca is at the helm as winemaker and carries on the family tradition. With 114 hectares dating back over 90 years, the Bodega Roca vineyards are at 2,300 ft. above sea level in the premier winegrowing region within the province of Mendoza. San Rafael is the southern oasis of Mendoza: a high desert oasis with low rainfall, intense sun and mild nights. All this contributes to the slow maturing of grapes and results in well-balanced and complex fruit.

The Ombu tree, a cultural symbol of the Argentine gaucho, is distinguishable from afar as it provides comfort and shelter from sun and rain. Like the tree, Ombu wines are representative of a rich heritage of winemaking tradition and the appreciation of finding comfort with friends, family and a great glass of wine. Enjoy!

BYRON & HAROLD | MARGARET RIVER, AUSTRALIA

FROM HUMBLE BEGINNINGS IN THE 1890'S, MARGARET RIVER HAS BEEN A TRUE 'RAGS TO RICHES' STORY.

At the conclusion of WW1, the Western Australian Government attracted migrants to western Australia to establish farms in the Margaret River. By 1922, more than 100 settlers had arrived. This was the early stage of the Margaret River region, where land clearing, logging and farm establishments was the order of the day. From humble beginnings in the 1890's, where itinerate farmers scratched a living out of the native bushland, to today's world-famous wine growing region, Margaret River has seen a true "Rags to Riches" story.

PRODIGAL | STA RITA HILLS AVA, CALIFORNIA

FROM THE 1ST GRADUATING GLASS AT UC DAVIS, STEVE RUSSELL EMBARKED ON A LIFELONG JOURNEY THAT BROUGHT HIM BACK TO CALIFORNIA TO FOUND PRODIGAL WINES.

The name "Prodigal" stems from the career paths that Stephen Russell has taken. As an early (1960) graduate of the UC Davis Enology program, Steve was the first formally-trained enologist to be hired by the Gallo's. After discovering that corporate winemaking didn't offer the future he had envisioned, and after attempting unsuccessfully to raise the money to purchase Freemark Abbey, with a twenty-something's wisdom he decided to leave the industry. After returning to school (DVM and PhD) and an academic career in cancer research, he and his wife, Mary, returned to California to found Quinta Santa Rosa Vineyard / Prodigal Wines in 2001. The 'prodigal son' had returned!

Steeply sloping Quinta Santa Rosa Vineyard is located on Santa Rosa Road in the southeastern corner of the Sta. Rita Hills appellation. Its four acres are solely planted to Pinot Noir – the eastern bloc contains Dijon clones 667 (on 3309) and 777 (on 5C) in equal amounts, while the western block consists of clone 115.

TERROIR NAPA VALLEY | NAPA VALLEY, CALIFORNIA

THE PASSION AND DEDICATION FROM CRAIG AND SUSAN HANDLY SHOWS THROUGH THEIR ELEGANT WINES FROM NAPA VALLEY.

After 25 years of wine label design, Craig Handly realized he had been heading toward producing our own wines all along and stepped out into the brilliant sunlight. He turned his attention into the wines of Napa Valley with the first vintage being made in 2001.

Craig's wife, Susan, grew up in St. Helena and Craig moved there in the year of the great California drought-1977. Susan's father has been a wine grower in the Napa Valley for over 60 years with growing contracts reaching back through Louis Martini, Cakebread, Chappellet and a long list of others. Their wines are primarily single vineyard Sauvignon Blanc and Chardonnay, Dusty Red, Syrah and the Cabernet's are from Carpenter Ranch Estate.

LIGHTPOST WINERY | SANTA CRUZ MOUNTAINS/SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA

LIGHTPOST IS CRAFTING ELEGANT WINES FROM COASTAL VINEYARDS IN CALIFORNIA.

Lightpost Winery is an exciting endeavor for Sofia Fedotova and her husband John Mauro, true wine lovers and very committed to establishing a super star boutique winery south of San Jose in Morgan Hill. Six acres of their 80 acres property were planted earlier this year on a slope, a magnificent well drained site facing Hwy 101. The tasting room located a few hundred yards off the 101 freeway in Morgan Hill, is the building that had been used as the headquarters of the famous painter Thomas Kinkaid: "the painter of light".

With fruit sources eventually coming from the estate vineyard in 2024, currently Lightpost has fruit from some of the best sites selected in the Central Coast such as Spanish Springs, Edna Valley and San Luis Obispo County. The Burgundy, Rhone and Bordeaux blends are stunning wines made by our winemaking team - Sofia Fedotova and Christian Roguenant (Central Coast Winemaker of the Year 2017) have received many accolades in a short time.

WINERIES FROM CANADA

REIF ESTATE | NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, ONTARIO, CANADA

ONE OF NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE'S FOUNDING FAMILY WINERIES, REIF ESTATE IS HOME TO SOME OF THE OLDEST VINIFERA PLANTINGS IN CANADA.

One of Niagara-on-the-Lake's founding family wineries, founded in 1982 by Ewald Reif and later acquired by nephew Klaus W. Reif. Today, Reif produces wines from its vineyard first planted in 1977. The vineyard is located in Ontario's warmest sub-appellation, ideal for the production of rich full-bodied wines. Reif's farm is also home to some of the oldest vinifera plantings in Canada, a benefit to growers in cooler climates like Ontario, as mature vines ripen earlier. Reif produces wines that reflect the 'terroir', so when you taste their wines you will taste the essence of their vineyard.

STRATUS VINEYARDS | NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, ONTARIO, CANADA

CRITICALLY ACCLAIMED, STRATUS WINES HAVE QUICKLY BECOME BENCHMARKS OF QUALITY WITHIN THE CANADIAN WINE INDUSTRY.
Website: www.stratuswines.com

Stratus Vineyards is a sustainable, innovative winery located in the heart of Niagara wine country. Viticultural practices adhere to the principles of rigorously low yields and harvesting that relies on handpicking and meticulous attention to fruit selection.

The vineyard is planted in thirty-five separate blocs containing thirteen different grape varieties. All of the varieties of Bordeaux as well as Syrah, Gamay, Chardonnay, Gewurztraminer, Riesling and Viognier allow for wines of diversity and complexity. The soils of the Stratus vineyard are highly prized compositions of clay loam with permeable gravelly limestone. Winemaking at Stratus is led by J-L Groux, a native of the Loire Valley in France. J-L has been honored as "Ontario Winemaker of the Year" and is renowned for his passion for creating distinctive wines based on the principle of assemblage -- the crafting of several grape varieties to create layered wines of complexity, a true expression of the vineyard's terroir.

VULCAN GIN AND REDMONT VODKA | BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

FOUNDED IN 2015, VULCAN GIN AND REDMONT VODKA BEGAN AT THE 1ST LEGAL DISTILLERY IN BIRMINGHAM SINCE PROHIBITION.
Website: www.redmontdistilling.com

In 1904, the Birmingham city fathers commissioned a statue of Vulcan, the roman god of fire and the forge, as a symbol of Birmingham's industrial might. Today, Vulcan — the world's largest cast iron statue — overlooks the city from atop Red Mountain. Redmont Distillery is proud to pay tribute to Birmingham's history by featuring an image of Vulcan that adorns the front of each bottle we produce.

Redmont Distillery takes its name from Birmingham's Red Mountain, the source of iron ore that was formed more than 400 million years ago. Along with limestone and coal, that red ore was one of three elements necessary to make iron, and the future site of Birmingham was the only place in the world where all three were found in such proximate abundance — a miracle of geological happenstance that led to the founding of the city in 1871.

Founded in 2015, we began distilling our Redmont Vodka and Vulcan Gin locally in small batches at our Birmingham distillery, which also happens to be the first legal distillery in Birmingham since prohibition. We distill our vodka eight times, giving it a 100% neutral taste. Our vodka hit the shelves in early 2016 and right off the bat, people could taste the difference.

GINROSA APERTIVO | MILANO, ITALY

ALL NATURAL WITH NO ARTIFICIAL COLORING OR ADDITIVES, GINROSA DATES BACK TO 1885 AND IS MADE WITH SELECTED HERBS AND DISTILLED JUNIPER BERRIES. Website: www.gin-rosa.it

The first version was prepared in a small laboratory attached to the well known bar in Piazza San Babila in Milan, Italy. The name 'GinRosa' was given by Annunciata Bourne who had a female sensibility and wanted to differentiate from the 'red' Campari and Aperol. In 1910 bitter was added as an ingredient and in 1930 the formula that gave birth to the current apertif was brought to completion with the infusion of selected herbs and distillate of juniper berries. Today, it is still made with 100% all natural ingredients having no artificial colors or additives.

YAMAZAKURA WHISKY | JAPAN

BLESSED BY ITS CLEAN ULTRAPURE WATER FROM MELTING SNOW DUE TO THE UNIQUE REGIONAL CLIMATE IN THE NORTHEAST OF JAPAN, THIS MAKES FOR AN IDEAL ENVIRONMENT FOR WHISKY PRODUCTION.

Being in existence since 1765, now a well-established distillery, Sasanokawa Shuzo's journey as spirits producers began producing fine sake but it wasn't until 1946 they started making blended whisky. Word spread quickly until they became praised as a rising star in the region, able to compete against Japanese whisky majors such as Suntory and Nikka. With unblended whisky used, this product is aged over 20 years, being matured in barrels for the first 15 years and then moved to tanks. Finally, it was moved into barrels again to complete the maturation process.

Buccella

Buccella (pronounced “boo-kehl-lah”) is the Latin term for “mouthful,” meant to signify the big, bold concentration of layers. The proprietary handmade wax label is an interpretation of a sommelier’s tastevin, designed to hold the perfect mouthful.

Since its founding in 2002, Buccella has remained unwaveringly committed to producing limited quantities of handmade, luxury wines produced from small vineyards in Napa Valley, primarily in Yountville, Oakville and Coombsville.

Complant

Complant produces rock star wines from the father-son team of Daniel and Sam Baron. Daniel started at Chateau Montelena in 1973 and then moved on to study with Dr. Harold Olmo at UC Davis. In 1981, he left California for France, and spent a year at Chateau Petrus. This association with Christian Moueix, then owner of Petrus, led him back to California and resulted in a twelve-year stint at Dominus, eventually as GM. In 1994 he became the winemaker at Silver Oak Cellars, where he remained for twenty-three vintages, along with helping found Twomey Cellars. His son Sam received his degree in Viticulture and Enology from UC Davis in 2012, and has done internships in Napa Valley, Burgundy and New Zealand. Sam’s day job is making wine for one of Northern California’s most forward-thinking wineries – but Complant represents his passion and an opportunity to work with his lifelong mentor.

The Barons’ skill with wines of restraint and elegance is evident in these four bottlings. The Pomme-en-Main Rosé is from organically grown Zinfandel grapes from Benguerel Family Vineyard in the heart of Kenwood, in Sonoma Valley. Chardonnay is from Steve Matthiasson’s organically farmed Linda Vista Vineyard in Napa. Grapes are fermented on their natural yeast and aged on lees for six months before bottling without filtration. The Soberanes Vineyard Pinot Noir is from eight rows of vines planted with the Pisoni clone on a bench adjacent to the renowned Garys’ Vineyard. The wine is fermented with natural yeast and aged in neutral burgundy barrels for one year. The Beller Vineyard Cabernet Sauvignon comes from the top of Mt. Veeder and is a co-ferment of Cabernet Sauvignon (86%) and Petit Verdot (14%). The wine is aged in thin-staved Bordeaux barrels (22% new), with racking through the heads every three months. This is a labor intensive method that Daniel learned working in Bordeaux, and it has a magical effect on the wine. High toned aromatics are preserved, while the tannins are integrated into the fabric of the wine.

McCay Cellars

McCay Cellars makes wines that express the character of the distinctive vineyards they work with. Michael McCay and his family have farmed in the Lodi AVA for 25 years, and began producing wine as McCay Cellars in 2007. Believing that the Lodi area has the perfect climate for Zinfandel and Rhone varietals, Michael's winemaking approach is "hands on" in the vineyard, and "hands off" in the winery. All wines are fermented using native yeasts with no inoculation, and the influence of new oak is kept to a minimum. Michael has been recognized as a "winemaker to watch" by the San Francisco Chronicle, and has had wines on the Chronicle's Top 100 list three different years.

In addition to McCay's estate vineyard, Lot 13, which includes vines planted in 1913, Michael uses grapes from some of the most sought-after and highly regarded vineyards in the region. This includes the 10-acre Rous vineyard, planted to Zinfandel in 1909 on St George rootstock, and the 132 year-old Bechthold Vineyard, planted in 1886! All wines are made as naturally as possible and are certified Lodi Rules.

Le Vigne

The Filippini family history in the Paso Robles area began in the early 1960's when winery owner, Sylvia Filippini's, family purchased the property where Le Vigne winery now stands. Sylvia and Walter Filippini run the winery today. Early on, Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon were planted to supplement the growing demand of other wine growing regions like Napa and Sonoma. As the vines matured, growers and winemakers began to see real potential for the area with its unique soils, climate and coastal influence.

The grapes grown on the estate were highly regarded by local producers and always in demand. Recognizing the quality, the family began making wine with grapes from the property beginning in 1989. Then they built a state of the art winery in 1995 and developed additional vineyards in 1998. They expanded the wineries varieties to include: Merlot, Syrah, Sangiovese and Cabernet Franc in addition to the original plantings of Cabernet Sauvignon and Chardonnay. Soils are clay-loam, with typical sunny growing conditions offset by cooling winds coming through the Templeton Gap.

Miro

Miro Cellars searches the region for the finest grapes from a variety of vineyards to make their one-of-a-kind specialty wines. Award winning winemaker Miro Tcholakov (who is also the current winemaker at Trentadue) considers the particular geology and seasonal climate variations of each vineyard when selecting the most interesting grapes the region has to offer. Because Miro has complete freedom to make precisely the wines he loves best, the results are a spectacular leap above the expected.

Stråla

Stråla Vineyards is run by Laura and Jason Ray. A successful vineyard manager, Jason has been growing grapes in Napa Valley since 2005, and counts among his clients such demanding winemakers as Philippe Melka and Thomas Rivers Brown. With his broad experience throughout Napa Valley, Jason knows that sometimes the best fruit is from vineyards that are still “below the radar.” He grows 100% of the grapes used for Stråla. Each wine is a perfect match of site, grape variety and wine style. Laura’s career path has included working for a premium cooperage company, and took a dramatic turn toward wine when she won a blind tasting at the Culinary Institute of America at Greystone against master sommeliers. She and Jason got together in 2013 and started Stråla – (roughly) Swedish for “Ray,” their last name – in 2014.

Jason works closely with winemaker Massimo Monticelli, who has made wine at Silver Oak, B.Wise, and Caldwell, to craft a set of spot-on Napa Valley wines. The Blanc de Blancs is 100% Chardonnay, from a cool vineyard in the southern part of the valley, and is aged on its lees for 24 months before disgorgement. The Sauvignon Blanc is bright with just a hint of cream and tropical notes. After a three day cold soak, Pinot Noir is 100% whole berry fermented, with no added yeast, then aged for 18 months in 40% new French oak. Stråla’s Proprietary Red Wine is a silky, rich blend that should be a crowd-pleaser. And the flagship Cabernet Sauvignon is a deeply colored, balanced but easy-going wine – everything people love about Napa Cabernet.

David Hill

David Hill Vineyards and Winery is home to the Willamette Valley's oldest Pinot Noir vines. Wines produced from vineyards in this area were celebrated as far back as the 19th century, even earning a gold medal at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. During Prohibition the original grapevines were removed but in 1965 Charles Coury, a recent graduate of UC Davis, came to Northern Oregon and planted what are now David Hill's oldest vines, some from root stock he brought back from Alsace and Burgundy. A modern-day pioneer, Coury was followed to the Willamette Valley by David Lett of Eyrie Vineyards in 1966 and Dick Erath in 1968.

In 1965 the estate was known as Charles Coury Vineyards. Today, David Hill is named for the Frederick David Family that once lived on the property. The hilly area was originally known as David's Hill and prior to that, Wine Hill. The first David Hill-labeled wines were from the 2000 vintage. The vision for David Hill revolves around a passion for excellent wine, a stewardship of these historic vines, and the legacy of place.

Burgenland

Reunion

Reunion is a joint venture between Gerald Wieder and Gerhard Kracher, who together are producing terrific red wines from Mittelburgenland, near the border with Hungary. Gerald Weider is the cellar master at the well-known (locally in the region, at least) Winzerkeller Neckenmarkt, which specializes in Blaufränkisch. Gerhard Kracher runs Weingut Kracher, known internationally for their off-the-charts dessert wines, and increasingly for table wines. Gerhard's father, Alois Kracher, helped Gerald Weider modernize the Winzerkeller Neckenmarkt vineyards and winery in the early 2000s, and Reunion is a commemoration of that.

With Reunion, Gerald and Gerhard are focused on making wine from the major red grape of Austria, Blaufränkisch (sorry, Zweigelt), the top growing region for which is Burgenland. Blaufränkisch goes by different names in different countries (Lemberger in Germany, Franconia in Italy, for instance) and can produce quite elegant wines, as evidenced here. The Blaufränkisch "Passion" is from a mixture of low-lying and hillside plots in the terrific Hochberg vineyard; it is fermented in stainless steel and aged for 12 months in a mixture of stainless and second-use barriques.

Schwarz

The Schwarz family has owned vineyards for generations, selling their grapes to the local cooperative winery. Hans Schwarz is a master butcher by trade, and in 1992, he made his first "hobby" wine and presented it to his friend Alois Kracher of the famed Weinlaubenhof Kracher. Alois was so impressed with the quality of Hans' grapes, he convinced him to make his own wine. With help from Kracher, as well as Manfred Krankl of Sine Qua Non fame – the "Mr K's" – Hans produced his first commercial vintage in 1999. Krankl and Alois' son, Gerhard, continue to collaborate with him on these distinctive wines.

Schwarz has 12 ha (30 acres) in Seewinkel in Burgenland along the eastern shore of Lake Neusiedl. The climate is hot, with dry summers cooled by the evening fog from the Lake. Hans Schwarz still has his butcher shop. The labels are designed by Manfred Krankl.

Südsteiermark

Potzinger

The Potzinger family has been making wine since 1860 and Potzinger winery is currently led by Stefan Potzinger. The winery is in southern Styria (“Südsteiermark”) which borders Slovenia. This region is increasingly gaining a reputation for producing some of the best Sauvignon Blancs in the world, and Sauvignon Blanc is Potzinger’s specialty. Potzinger winery is in Gabersdorf, just across the river Mur from Leibnitz, and the wines come from distinct vineyards throughout southern Styria. Potzinger’s wines are benchmarks for the region.

The Sauvignon Blanc from the Czamillionberg vineyard is exotic and slightly smoky. The wine from the terrific Steinriegel vineyard is elegant, with notes of citrus and pineapple. And the slightly spicy “Joseph” Sauvignon Blanc from the historic Sulz vineyard (which has been growing wine grapes since the 1300s!) is rich and beautifully balanced.

Clos de la Cure

Centuries ago it was common that churches had their own vineyards and the priests would keep the best plots for themselves. This small 6.5 ha (16 acres) clos, or walled vineyard, is located behind the Church of Saint Christophe des Bardes, next to the cure (the rectory or priest's home). The estate is owned and managed by Alexia and Pierre Bouyer, who are also the proprietors of nearby Château Milon, as well as the tiny Clos 56 in Pomerol.

After a traditional fermentation, the wines are aged for 12-15 months in barriques, 50% of which are new.

Owned by Pierre and Alexia Bouyer, Château Milon has been in the same family for seven generations. This wine is made from two parcels: one at the base of the Saint-Christophe-des-Bardes slope just outside the town of St. Émilion, and the other in the gravelly soil of Saint Sulpice.

After a five-day cold soak, the wine is fermented using natural yeast in cement tanks, with two to three weeks post-fermentation maceration. Aged in barrel six months before bottling.

Domaine d'Ardhuy

The Domaine D'Ardhuy estate and its monopole Clos des Langres vineyard are located at the southernmost limit of the Côte de Nuits. The estate is run by Mireille d'Ardhuy-Santiard, who, along with winemaker Carel Voorhuis, makes wine from six Grand Crus and fifteen Premier Crus, including the white Ladoix 1er Cru Le Rognet, which vineyard abuts Corton-Charlemagne. It is said that if this parcel had been planted to Chardonnay, rather than Pinot Noir, when the AOC was classified in 1937 it would be part of that famous Grand Cru appellation today.

Their flagship Clos des Langres bottling comes from a three hectare walled vineyard first planed by the monks of Cluny in the 10th century. Their estate's driveway leads to a very pretty nineteenth century house with vines bordered by small fruit trees. The location is Corgoloin, the house and grounds are in the Côte de Nuits but just the other side of their 'Clos' wall is the Côte de Beaune.

From this ideal location, the strength and focus of the estate is on the Côte de Beaune, with outstanding holdings in Corton, Ladoix, and Savigny. The domaine's vineyards throughout the Côte D'Or are the heritage of Mireille's father Gabriel who founded the estate in 1947. Domaine d'Ardhuy's wines have been produced biodynamically since 2009, and are bottled unfiltered and unfined.

Domaine Cady

Located just southwest of Angers, on the opposite side of the Loire river, Domaine Cady was founded in 1927 and is now run by by Philippe and Sylvie Cady with their son, fourth-generation Alex, making the wines. The south facing vineyard is in the heart of the Coteaux du Layon AOP. Soils are a mix of schist and quartz with the majority of the vineyard planted to Chenin Blanc and Cabernet Franc.

Grapes are picked by hand in three or more passes through the vineyards to insure grapes are brought in at optimum concentration and ripeness. Vinification is in temperature-controlled glass-lined underground vats, with a long maturation on the lees, resulting in wines with a lovely, almost delicate balance of power and fruit. Certified Organic since 2007, Domaine Cady's wines are never chapitalized.

Domaine Bruno Cormerais

The modern story of Muscadet in some ways mirrors the recent revival of Beaujolais. Both were “bistro” wines that fell victim to their own success in the 1970s and 1980s, when quantity mattered more than quality. But both regions are now home to some of the most adventurous producers in France, who, in different ways, are making serious high-quality wines that offer an affordable alternative to the increasingly pricey wines of, say, the Cote d’Or or Sancerre.

Domaine Bruno Cormerais is located in Clisson, perhaps the top subregion of Muscadet, where the profoundly granitic soils are some of the oldest in France. His wines capture the diversity and potential of this region. The younger vine bottlings are aged six to nine months on the lees, and the top wines, from vineyards up to seventy years and old rooted deep in the granite bedrock, are aged on the lees two to four years or more(!). Bruno Cormerais’ wines are among those leading the way to a new appreciation of Muscadet: wines that are rich without being fat, piercingly mineral and savory, with remarkable longevity in bottle.

Domaine des Forges

Founded in 1890, Domaine des Forges is now in the hands of fifth-generation Stephane and Severine Branchereau. With a focus on single-vineyard Savennières, more than half of their vineyards are planted to Chenin Blanc. Their wines capture the best characteristics of the grape variety: satisfyingly weighty texture as well as a lightness that comes from the grape's naturally high acidity – weighty yet light, the beautiful paradox of Chenin Blanc. The Branchereaus use indigenous yeasts for fermentation and practice sustainable wine growing throughout their relatively low-yielding vineyards. The Savennieres go through partial malolactic fermentation and are aged on the lees for up to eleven months before bottling.

Rhône

Mas des Volques

The Souchon family has been growing grapes in the Southern Rhone Valley for over 80 years, always selling the fruit to local wineries. In 2010 fourth-generation Nicholas Souchon, who had been the cellar master at Clos Saint Jean in Chateauneuf-du-Pape, and with the help of superstar consultant Philippe Cambie, decided to produce his own wine from the family's 28-acre (12 ha) estate in the Duché d'Uzès region. In 2013 this region earned AOP status, giving it the same status as nearby Gigondas and Vacqueyras. This confirmed what the Nicolas already knew well: these are great vineyards!

Mas de Volques takes its name from the remains of Volques Arécomiques, an ancient gaulois village discovered on the property over 30 years ago. The vineyards are a mix of clay and limestone, located at the foothills of the Cevennes mountains. Both of Nicolas's red blends highlight the distinctive Syrah grown on the property. The Alba Dolia is a Viognier-dominated blend balanced by Roussanne, Marsanne and Clairette. The Portes de Dieu ("Doors of God") is 100% Chardonnay.

Mosel

Heymann-Löwenstein

Whoever leaves the globalized highway of industrialization with its "taste-can-be-created" ideology today in order to follow the stony path of terroir wines learns to take himself as not that important, learns to regard nature and the mystery of "wine" with respect and humility. At the same time he also discovers a new freedom. The idea of terroir liberates you from the obligation of having to produce wine that has to please everyone, of having to produce wine for the "common market." Terroir always means more liberation, and the realization of individual dreams when it comes to interpreting the vineyard.

- Reinhard Löwenstein

Heymann-Löwenstein's vineyards are located in Winnegen, near Koblenz. This area, the Terrassen Mosel, is famous for its steep, terraced vineyards.

Valle d'Aosta

Maison Anselmet

Historic records mention a wine producer named Anselmet in the Aosta Valley in the 16th century. Nearly four centuries later in 1978, after decades of making wine only for family consumption, Renato Anselmet began producing wine commercially. In 2001 his son Giorgio took over the business and the modern reputation of Maison Anselmet as top producer of Alpine wines began. In 2009 a new winery was built and today Anselmet continues as one of the quality standard bearers for the Aosta Valley.

The vineyards of Maison Anselmet reach extreme altitudes, with some planted on impossible slopes, are they all different from each other, whether by soil type, size or grape varieties planted. Where they do not differ is in the care shown to the vines during the growing season. In this extreme, sunny, windy climate, everything in the vineyard is done by hand. The range of wines Anselmet produces from these sites are distinctive and elegant, compelling for wine lovers and an effortless match for a wide range of meals.

Liguria

Cascina Feipu dei Massaretti

In the mid-1960's Pippo Parodi and his wife Bice inherited their family's fruit and vegetable farm that Pippo's grandfather Feipu had first planted many years before. Pippo was convinced the land was well suited for wine grapes and began converting the estate to winegrowing. Since there were no appellations for Ligurian wine in the 1960's, Pippo decided to highlight this special terroir by naming the estate after the area, Massaretti.

Within a few years, Pippo had a long list of customers begging for an allocation of their tiny production. In 1987, Pippo and Bice handed the reins over to their daughter, Brunella and her husband Mirco who continue to run the estate today. Under Mirco's direction the family has constructed a new winery and increased production slightly although quantities remain very small. And the focus is still on two native varieties, Pigato and Rossese.

Marche

Colonnara

The Colonnara estate was founded in 1959 by a cooperative of 19 farmers at a time when there were few wineries in the region. The winery is in Cupramontana, in the heart of the Ancona province in Le Marche. The surrounding hills, at an average elevation of 1500 feet, form the Verdicchio dei Castelli di Jesi Classico region, and Colonnara is one of the longstanding proponents of this region's traditional, versatile white wines. In addition to the popular whites Verdicchio and Pecorino, Colonnara also produces a fruit-driven Rosso Piceno. Colonnara's wines are certified organic..

Piedmont

Oswaldo Barberis

The vineyards of Oswaldo Barberis are in the very northern part of the Langhe in Dogliani just south of Monforte d'Alba. As with many working farms, Oswaldo tends to grapes and olive trees along with raising prized Piemontese beef. Among the wine grapes, Dolcetto is Oswaldo's focus, with the balance of his vineyard planted to Nebbiolo, Barbera and a very small plot of the rare local white variety, Nascetta.

The soft-spoken Oswaldo is very proud, in particular, of his Dolcettos. The Valdiba bottling is higher toned and floral, while the Puncin is more deeply colored with notes of dark red berries. The average vine age is 40 years with some sections reaching 80 to 85 years old. Soils are mainly a mix of clay and limestone. All grapes are hand-harvested and wines are bottled unfiltered, with very little sulfites used.

Corino

The Corinos started as farmworkers and in 1952 they leased the land in Annuziata in La Morra from the church. The land was planted with fruit trees and grapevines, and they sold the grapes to other producers, holding back a small amount for personal use. In 1987, with the help of their good friend Elio Altare, they bottled their first wine. At the same time, their sons, Giuliano and Renato, took over management of the property and started improving the quality of the farming and purchased their first fermentation tanks and oak barrels. In 2005, Renato left to start his own company and today, Corino is operated by Giuliano and his wife, Stefania.

Corino has 8 ha (20 acres) of vineyards, planted to Nebbiolo, Barbera and Dolcetto. All farming is organic and sustainable. Stylistically, Corino's wines are classic expressions of their grape varieties, and reference points for the region. L'Insieme, meaning together, is made by a group of eight small wine producers from the Piedmont Region. Fondly called "Elio (Altare) and the low yield producers" – as low yields is the production philosophy. They are committed to re-establishing the circle between cattle raising and wine production. Combined with the Slow Food association, money raised is used to purchase cattle and grazing land.

Piedmont

Cecilia Monte

Coming from a winegrowing family, Cecilia Monte's wines capture not only the traditions of this corner of Piedmont, but a fresh approach to making stylish wines in this largely male-dominated region. Her ten-acre estate is situated at the northern edge of the Barbaresco appellation, in the town of Neive at roughly 1000 feet elevation, in an area rich in natural biodiversity. The Serracapelli cru produces structured Barbaresco with high-toned, sometimes exotic aromatics. Cecilia's father, Paolo, is still very much involved in the company and Cecilia's top bottling comes from his favorite rows in this vineyard.

The wines Cecilia makes come from vines as old as 50 years, in soil composed of largely bluish calcarous marl, and are typically held a year or two longer in bottle before release than some of her neighbors. The Langhe Nebbiolo is a terrific introduction to the estate..

Roccia Rossa

Roccia Rossa is in tiny Villa del Bosco, in the north of Piedmont in the Alpine foothills, roughly halfway between Turin and Lake Como. Here in the Bramaterra DOC, like the more famous Barolo region about 60 miles to the south, wines are based on Nebbiolo, but here it is blended with local varieties such as Vespolina, itself a cousin of Nebbiolo. Since the entire DOC includes fewer than forty hectares of grapevines, Bramaterra wines are seldom seen outside the region but should be of interest to anyone enchanted by Piedmontese Nebbiolo.

At roughly 1200 feet elevation, Roccia Rossa's vineyards average 25 years old, with volcanic soils and a Southern exposure. Overlapping with the Bramaterra DOC, the Costa della Sessia DOC produces easy-to-love wines. Roccia Rossa's 100% Nebbiolo Rosato is elastic and ductile, and the Galliano cuvee is a bright, easy-going blend of Nebbiolo and Barbera. The fuller-bodied Bramaterra is aged 24 months in oak before bottling, while the Riserva, from the oldest part of the vineyard, is aged 30 months in oak then an additional three years in bottle before release. Fewer than 500 cases of each of these four wines are produced, with only a tiny amount exported to the U.S.

Piedmont

Tenute Guardasole

This tiny vineyard was first planted in 1950 by Virgilio Bui in what is now the DOC Boca, at 1500 to 1600 feet elevation the highest winegrowing region in Piedmont. In 2009, Virgilio's grandson Marco Bui built a small winery on the property and started Tenute Guardasole. Marco is part of a new generation of talented, young winemakers who are bringing life back to long abandoned vineyards of Alto Piemonte, an area which for many years has taken a back seat to Barolo and Barbaresco, but more recently has been recognized for its distinctive wines of great quality and undisputable value.

In addition to the DOC Boca, produced from the original vineyard, Marco planted two small parcels on the estate, one with 100% Nebbiolo – this became the Pio Decimo bottling – and the other with Vespolina, Nebbiolo and Dolcetto, which is the source for the Virgilio cuvee. The winery is small but state of the art, and Marco and his partner Annalisa Gri work with minimal intervention in order to best preserve the varietal characteristics. Soils are granite and pink volcanic porphyry. All wines are certified organic.

Sardinia

Vignetti Zanatta

In 1975 young winemaker Bruno Zanatta moved from Treviso to Sardinia where he spent the next 30 years honing his skills at wineries in the region. In 2005 he found the perfect vineyard site and with his family purchased two large plots of land in the Gallura area of Sardinia, a hilly region in the northeast corner of the island. Gallura is known for its granite rocks that are shaped by the wind, the rain and the sea.

Located about a mile from the Mediterranean this land was selected to take advantage of the steady winds on Sardinia. When it does rain, the vines dry within minutes, which helps guarantee that pests and disease are almost never an issue. The grapes planted are Vermentino and Cannonau on soils typical for the Gallura region, sand over granite bedrock.

Cupano

The Cupano estate was founded in 1994 by Ornella Tondini and Lionel Cousin on a stony hill above the Ombrone river. From this pristine site, the vineyards have excellent drainage, high mineral content and a wonderful view. Inspired by Henri Jayet and his reference-standard Burgundies, along with the belief that wine is made in the vineyard, Cupano's wines are made with no chemical fertilizers or pesticides, strict yields with further selection on the sorting table before aging in new French barriques.

Fattoria di Piazzano

Fattoria di Piazzano is southwest of Florence in the rolling hills of western Chianti, off the road that leads to Pisa and Livorno. Here in 1948 the big Tuscan sky offered its founder, Otello Bettarini, the opportunity to follow his two passions, wine and astronomy.

In the late 1990s Rolando and Ilaria Bettarini took the reins of the vineyard and winery. The vineyard is farmed organically and sustainably. Unlike some Chianti producers that may be better-known in the U.S., Fattoria di Piazzano sells most of its wine in Italy where it has a loyal following. The Ventoso is sort of a baby super-Tuscan red, an easy-drinking blend of classic Tuscan varieties, and the Colorino offers a rare glimpse at this classic Tuscan variety as a stand-alone wine. All wines made at the estate are certified vegan, and only renewable energy is used at the winery.

Podere Forte

Located in the beautiful Orcia Valley between Montalcino and Montepulciano, Podere Forete was founded in the mid-1990s by Pasquale Forte. Once known as Podere Petrucci, this large farm uses a majority of the land for olive groves, grain fields, livestock pastures, beehives, and decorative gardens, with just a fraction of the property devoted to vineyards. Pasquale spent years returning the estate to its former glory, and while it produces many things, the jewel in the crown is wine.

Vineyard soils are mainly clay-limestone mixed with sand and gravel. In the years preceding vineyard planting, legumes and grains were planted in order to cleanse the soil and to allow meticulous study of each plot. During harvest, each plot is harvested 2-3 times to ensure optimal ripeness for each grape cluster. The grapes of each harvest are vinified separately; selection in the cellar is strict in order to achieve the best wines possible each vintage.

Poggio Lucina

The Di Donato family has been farming in Montalcino for generations. In 2002 they established the vineyards that would become Poggio Lucina, taking the winery name from the goddess Lucina, protector of women at work. Winemaker Evelise Di Donato respects the traditions of this historic region but focuses on purity of fruit and elegance in her wines more than some of her “old-school” neighbors.

The Rosso di Montalcino is aged for one year in a mix of traditional large Slavonian oak barrels and French barriques, and the finished wine shows the typical cherry and violet notes the DOC is known for. Brunello di Montalcino is aged in large Slavonian oak for 4 years followed by a minimum of six months in bottle before release, and the finished wine is polished and rich, with notes of blueberry, cranberry and bitter almond.

Tenimenti d'Alessandro

This property was founded in 1967 by the d'Alessandro family just outside Cortona in south-east Tuscany. At that time, the wine production in Cortona consisted of blended or inexpensive wine only. In 1988, after studies by Prof. Attilio Scienza at The University of Milan, 10 acres of Syrah were planted as an experiment in order to determine the vine-growing potential of the area. Clones best suited for the area were chosen from the Rhone Valley. In 1999 the marriage between this terroir and the Syrah grape was officially recognized and the Cortona DOC establishing Syrah as well-suited to the area was established.

From 1993 to 2003 Tenimenti d'Alessandro gradually replanted their vineyards to Syrah and Viognier. Today Syrah is considered an authentic local Cortona variety and the production of the Tenimenti d'Alessandro winery represents one of the quality benchmarks for Italian Syrah. The talented Filippo Calabresi is the winemaker.

Veneto

Adalia

The Adalia estate is in the lovely Valle di Mezzane in Verona and is owned and run by Marinella Camerani and her daughter Federica. Marinella built her reputation at Corte Sant'Alda, where her celebrated Amarones and Reciotos earned her the "Winemaker of the Year" accolade from Gambero Rosso in 2008. In 2009 she purchased a seven acre parcel of pergola trained vineyards on a limestone-rich hillside near Corte Sant'Alda and Adalia was born. The estate is named for a type of ladybug (Adalia bipunctata) found in the vineyards that keeps the aphid population in check.

Federica leads the winemaking at Adalia, and her wines are made with native yeast, and bottled unfiltered and unfiltered. Stylistically they share a freshness and a purity of expression making them textbook examples of these classic Veneto wines. Federica is currently overseeing the estate's conversion to biodynamic production.

Tenute Camate

Bruno Zanatta grew up in Treviso, in the Veneto region and studied enology there. After creating a successful wine business in Sardinia he returned to Treviso to build the Tenute Camate winery, focused on making sparkling wine, as well as Pinot Grigio under the Vigneti Zanatta brand.

The Teneuta Camate wines are lovely examples of Italy's most popular sparkling wines, Prosecco (DOC Treviso) and Moscato (from Veneto). Both are fresh, fruit forward and true-to-type. The Vigneti Zanatta Pinot Grigio is a made in a crowd-pleasing style from the heart of Pinot Grigio country.

Navarra

Domaines Lupier

In 2006, Enrique Basarte and Elisa Úcar started rescuing small plots of Garnacha in very old vineyards. After many years' experience working in wine, and convinced that the making of a great wine takes place in the vineyard, Elisa and Enrique examined the terroir in various areas until they found what they were looking for: old Garnacha vines in different soils, orientations and altitudes – between 1300 and 2500 feet above sea level in the north of Spain. In total Domaines Lupier consists of twenty-seven small plots located in an Atlantic climate in the northern Navarra region. Of the 14 ha (35 acres) the largest plot is 1.2 ha (3 acres); yields average a meager 1.2 tons per acre.

Lupier means "path of the wolf." Centuries ago, wolves dominated these higher elevation areas. The twenty-seven small vineyards, some planted as far back as 1903, made it possible to obtain the "savage" expression of Garnacha they were looking for. The La Dama plots are surrounded by numerous wildflowers. It is these wildflowers that give La Dama its floral lift or perfume.

The wines are aged in large oak barrels for up to 24 months before bottling.

Rueda

Bodega Traslagaes

After extensive experience as winegrowers, the Gaona family decided in 2009 to build a winery on their property in Rueda and to resume the wine-making tradition inherited from their grandfathers.

The family's west-facing hillside vineyards are planted on a mix of gravel and calcium soils. Most vines are over twenty-five years old and are distributed in three "pagos" (Spanish term for small agricultural lands): Traslagaes, Torreón and Papín. Grapes are harvested at night for maximum freshness.

Graubünden

Donatsch

The Donatsch family has been making wine on their property in Malans, Switzerland, just south of Lichtenstein, for over 120 years. In the 1970s Thomas Donatsch, inspired by the great wines of the Côte d'Or, replanted most of the vineyard to Chardonnay and Pinot Noir, which were not officially approved varieties at the time. In 1973 his friend André Noblet, winemaker at Domaine de la Romanee Conti, gave him three used La Tache barrels, and Donatsch became one of the pioneering wineries in Switzerland to make wine using Burgundy as the model.

The Donatsch estate is in the Bündner Herrschaft sub-zone of Graubünden, with about 11 acres under vine. Under a layer of clay lay several meters of chalky limestone ideal for growing Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. The vineyards all enjoy southern exposure and are aided by the bright sunshine during the day and cooling Alpine winds at night. In addition to Chardonnay and Pinot Noir, another passion for Donatsch is Completer, a rare indigenous white grape with cultivation records dating back to 1321. Once nearly extinct, Donatsch farms 1.5 acres, making them perhaps the largest grower of the variety in the world.

Neuchâtel

La Maison Carrée

The Perrochet family can trace its heritage in Auvernier, in the Neuchâtel region, back to the 16th Century when the Maison Carrée, a landmark in the village, was built. The family began tending vines and making wine on the property soon thereafter. Managed by Jean-Denis and Christine Perrochet since 2008, their son Alexandre is now taking over winemaking responsibilities.

The two estate vineyards are located about six miles apart: one near Auvernier to the west of Lake Neuchâtel and the other in Hauterive to the east. The diverse stony soils in these vineyards are rich in marl, limestone and iron, creating expressive, aromatic whites – including the lovely Alpine variety, Savagnin – and silky, minerally Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. The detailed, intense Le Lerin Pinot Noir comes from seventy year-old vines. La Maison Carrée's wines have been produced Biodynamically since 2012.
